

WHITE ELEPHANT™

PALM BEACH

MEDITERRANEAN REVIVAL MEETS MODERN LUXE.

White Elephant Palm Beach is housed in the former Bradley Park Hotel—originally constructed in 1924 as one of the first resorts on Palm Beach’s Main Street. For more than 20 years, the hotel served as a magnet for business tycoons and high rollers before the hotel was listed with the Landmark Preservation Commission in part due to its architectural significance.

The footprint of the structure and the facade remains, while the interiors have been stripped to the bones and rebuilt by Boston-based Elkus Manfredi Architects. Transformed into one of the most luxurious properties in Palm Beach, the 13-room and 19-suite hotel showcases the history of the existing building while incorporating a contemporary interpretation of Mediterranean-Revival architecture.
